Scope and Contents:

The Cochrane Collection contains material ranging from the pre-American Civil War period through the first half of the twentieth century. The material came from the estate of Mrs. John T. Cochrane, nee Katharine Crampton, and contains a considerable amount of material on Mrs. Crampton's family including Dr. Guy Chester Crampton, Katharine's step-brother. Personal letters between the two fill several files, and date from the early 1900s through Dr. Crampton's death in 1951. There is also correspondence between Katharine and Guy and other family members, especially their parents. The files are very family oriented, with detailed family histories of the Crampton line. There is also correspondence between Katharine and John T. Cochrane Sr., before and after marriage. Information concerning earlier eras may be found in the family files. The collection is housed in 11 boxes.

Boxes 1 through 5 contain items of a personal nature. These include scrapbooks, awards and educational diplomas, and small personal items such as address books. There is also a selection of family Bibles.

Box 6 contains items related to John T. Cochrane. These include letters between the Cochrane family, information on the Cochrane Bridge, and political items. The political items include a pass to the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson in 1868 and note cards with wax seals from the White House in 1897. There is also a file on Clarence Matthews, the Cochrane's chauffeur, who organized the first African-American Boy Scout troop. Another interesting file relates to Federal Land Grants, issued by authority of some early presidents. Pencil drawings, of what might be the Cochrane family home in Mobile, including floor plans, are also in this box. Information gathered from outside sources are within each file relating to that topic.

Box 7 contains newsclippings on both the Cochranes and Cramptons, including announcements relating to deaths and marriages, as well as society news. The files also include drawings of floor plans, possibly of the Cochrane home in Mobile. Photographs of the
